Comptroller Craig's Statement In a statement on the budget Comprefler Craig said:

of several thousand dollars

"Attempts have been made to create confusion with respect to what is known the city. The Greater New York Charter has always required that these moneys upon their receipt be paid into the general fund for the reduction of taxation. There has never been any de-parture from this course. The Corpora-tion Counsel last year expressed the view that a different course was required by the State education law as amended in 1317. This view, however, has been held to be erroneous, as the amendment of 1917 made no change whatever in the pre-existing law in this regard. "In every city of the state except New York, Boards of Education in preparing their budget estimates are re-quired to deduct from the total the amount to be received from the State Sis. 104,200.

open to the accused police officer, Gov. Edge of New Jersey may conclude not to have him prosecuted. Or the Prosecu-tor of the Pleas of Hudson county—the locus penitentie—may not regard it as worth while either. Or it may develop that he never handed the gun to Gaffney at all. Or a jury may find that he was suffering from softening of the brain at the time. But Detectives Lewis Barrett and James B. Fitzpatrick of this department charge it, and Gaffney—in their presence and presumably about to be re-turned to their custody-nodded his as-sent yesterday and said it was true to the last detail. And District Attorney Swann is so far convinced of it that he has written to Gov. Edge and the prosecutor of Hudson county and asked that they take immediate action against the like the day, Gaffney was brought from Police Headquarters to District Attorney Swann's office yesterday to give his free and untrammelled version of the beating automobile, unarmed, and securely shackled to two detectives, he was being freighted from the New Jersey jurisdiction to this. His appearance at Centre street yesterday was in salient contrast to his appearance at Police Headquarters on Sunday, where he arived dishevelled and dripping blood om his abrasions

For the art of the camoufleur showed all over him yesterday. The purple egg beneath his left eye had been painted deftly; so had the contused areas at the back and sides of his neck. His hair had been arranged with thought, and was slicked plausibly over an array of cuts upon his crown, forehead and temples. His hands, smoothly manicured and creamed, showed scatheless. He was without his gloves and stick, but his naily green beyon, will had been secured. natty green brown suit had been scoured and pressed with all the cunning known to the valet's craft.

"And now," said Judge Swann. "I have been informed that you were beaten by detectives while on your way from New Jersey to Police Headquarters. Do you desire to make a complaint against any one to aid us in making a proper nvestigation?"
